Editorial Review

From the Author

Considering people spend more time at work than they do with their loved ones, their interests and hobbies having a job that has personal meaning is essential to a happy life. I have coached and trained hundreds of people through the job hunting process. Over the years a many of them have become personal friends and I am blown away with just how far they have come.

This book is a distillation of the hundreds of hours I have spent testing CVs and Resumes as well as sitting in interviews as an interviewee, interviewer and as an observer. I have taken all that knowledge and experience boiled it down to some core concepts which if you follow will significantly increase your chances in any job hunting scenario.

I can't guarantee that you will get any one particular job. What I can say though is using the techniques in this book will significantly increase your chances to get any job. And what is even better is that once you have the skills you can easily repeat the process as many times as you like.
