Finance to a Company appears to be what blood to a human body. Company right from its incorporation and during its perpetual succession requires flow of adequate finance for determining all its liabilities, debts and statutory and other compliances. Company remains as the sole legal entity which can manage its finance through offering its securities to the public in the securities market. Therefore, Structured and orderly growth of securities market is required for success of corporations in particular and economy in general. This task has been entrusted to SEBI (Securities and Exchange Board of India) in India. This book provides deep insight as how far SEBI has been successful in properly regulating the Securities Market and enforcing the norms of corporate governance in India. This book also provides how SEBI is dealing with current issues of the securities market in India.
