Marx and Freud in Latin America: Politics, Psychoanalysis, and Religion in Times of Terror By Bruno Bosteels

The turbulent region through the eyes of Marx and Freud.

Marx and Freud in Latin America seeks to reassess the timeless relevance of the work of Marx and Freud for Latin America, based on the premise that Marxism and psychoanalysis are neither philosophical doctrines nor positivist sciences but rather intervening doctrines of the subject, in political and clinical-affective situations. After going over the possible reasons for Marx and Freud's own missed encounter with the realities of Latin America, the book presents ten studies to argue that art and literature--the novel, poetry, theater, film--perhaps more so than the militant tract or the theoretical essay provide a symptomatic site for the investigation of such processes of subjectivization.

Editorial Review

Review

"The texts are never less than provocative, wide-ranging, informative and copiously footnoted. There is a keen and magisterial intelligence at work here." Philip Derbyshire, Radical Philosophy

"Bruno Bosteels has written a truly significant book. It will be of interest to all Latin Americanists, and surely also to a fair number of non-Latin Americanists concerned with the destiny in the present--that is, beyond their potentially archival status--of Marx's and Freud's interventions. While its case studies will become--if they have not already--indispensable resources for researchers working on the topics they cover, the book as a whole marks a possible "untimely" return of the Latin Americanist field to its critical heights." -- Sam Steinberg, Revista de Estudios Hispánicos

"Positively inspiring."—Jean Franco, author of The Decline and Fall of the Lettered City

"Some of the stories he tells are familiar, but Bosteels has not written yet another history of orthodox Marxism and official psychoanalysis in Latin America. His considerable originality lies in his focus on intriguing and under-appreciated thinkers, often heretics within already heretical traditions."—The New Inquiry
